A Good Ice Harvest.

Each season of the year has its work peculiar to itself and the past week commencing Thursday and continuing till Tuesday, the ice for the coming summer has been harvested. Lake Pennesswassee has been a busy place during that time and no small amount of ice has been cut.

The ice this year is of an excellent quality, perfectly clear and free from snow ice, and is a trifle over 17 inches thick.

C. E. Russell has had a large crew at work and has had fine weather to cut.

The first process of cutting the ice was to have the surface free from snow and to acquire a straight cut along the lower part of ice to be cut. Then the marker is used and the surface to be cut is marked into squares, 18 inches square. After being marked the ice plow drawn by a horse is used to cut the ice to a depth of about 12 inches. A canal, just a trifle over 18 inches in width is cut from the place where the ice is being cut to the runway.

Monday, George Pike, George Merrill and Charles Ripley were busy attending to the snow scraper and ice plow while Alonzo Hall freed the cakes in strips of about 40 feet from the main ice and started them toward the canal where Muzzy Judkins and Gene Libby separated them in double cakes and guided them up to the runway. At this point Horace Cole took the cakes and started them up the runway, which is a wooden structure with housed sides. Here Allie Richardson clamped the grapples on to about six cakes and they were pulled up the runway by means of a horse driven by Levi Frost, and deposited at the rise in the runway. Here Will Glover put on another set of grapples and hopped on with the ice and with a puff of the engine, man and ice were carried up the incline and the ice sent into the addition to the ice house, where Ephriam Dunham, William Walker, Homer Truman, Harold Damon and Alexander Malvin packed it away in layers. About 4,000 cakes were packed in this addition, and a much larger amount in the ice house. Percy Damon and Elmer Cambell were in charge of the hoisting engine.

There was also another branch to the work. On the opposite side from the canal which led to the ice house was another canal which led to a raised platform where ice was sold and loaded on to teams for farmers who wished to fill their ice houses and a lot of ice was sold.

There were several of the ice houses at the different cottages also being filled.

D. W. Goodwin was cutting ice with a crew of men near Norway Lake so that Lake Pennesseewassee was rather a busy place. Sunday, a large number of spectators called around to see the process of ice cutting.

Universalist Parish Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Universalist parish was held at Concert Hall on Thursday. A supper consisting of sandwiches, salads, coffee, hot rolls, cakes and pies was served. Following the supper the business meeting was held. The reports of the treasurer and parish committee show the parish to be in good financial condition. One hundred dollars was voted to the Oxnard fund and the parish committee was authorized to pay the Francis Henry Bearce fund and the balance of the Oxnard fund. The following officers were elected:

Moderator—Col. E. F. Smith.
Clerk—Charles F. Ridlon.
Treas.—Col.—Otto Schnuer.

Cyrus Hamlin.

January 5th was the centennial of the birth of Rev. Cyrus Hamlin of Waterford. Last Sunday Rev. Merrill C. Ward devoted his sermon to the remarkable service this man rendered the world. His many sided talent was mentioned. He loved the farm in his boyhood and regretted to leave it. He was apprenticed as a silversmith in Portland. Soon he was led to study for the ministry. He graduated from Bridgton Academy, Bowdoin College and Bangor Theological school, and went as a missionary to Turkey. Here he founded and was president of Robert College. His work has done much toward the educating of the young Turkish element, which is dominant in the new Turkey of today. Mr. Hamlin alone with his own hands built the first steam engine made in Maine. He built the first steam flouring mill and modern bakery in Turkey. His work in furnishing food and washing clothing undoubtedly saved the English Army in the Crimean War. Dr. Hamlin's work in many ways contributed to the Kingdom of God, and his career is one of the most remarkable and interesting of America's citizens.

They hope for a large attendance as most everyone knows the money raised from these entertainments is given to those who may meet with misfortune and ill health, and to those who are in need. Every effort will be made to have them enjoy the evening and want to come next year.

Quinn Pratt, while walking up Pleasant Street, Friday evening in company with Elmer Dunham was run into by a double runner coming down the hill. Pratt and Dunham stepped to one side of the road but the double in some way was guided in the same direction. Mr. Pratt was injured in the knee and it was feared that he would have to be operated on and the bone attended to but he is now getting on nicely and it is thought he will not have to be operated on. He also injured the back of his head from the fall.

Judge Savage's Findings In Sheriff Controversy.

J. Melvin Bartlett, Pet'r, v. Bertrand G. McIntire.

This is a petition brought under R. S. Chap 6, Sec. 70, to determine whether the petitioner at the September election 1910 was duly elected sheriff of Oxford County for the term beginning January 1, 1911, or whether the defendant was elected. Both were candidates for the office, and their names were printed on the official ballot, under the appropriate designations.

By the official returns to the Secretary of State it appeared that the petitioner, Bartlett, had received 3,707 ballots, and the defendant, McIntire, had received 3,716. A certificate of election has been issued to Mr. McIntir by the Governor and Council, and at the date of this finding he is performing the duties of the office.

Mr. Bartlett alleges in substance, and contends that upon a correct count of all the ballots cast for sheriff it will appear that he received a plurality, and that he was lawfully elected sheriff, and that judgment to that effect ought now to be rendered in this proceeding.

No technical questions of pleadings or procedure have been raised by either party, and the sole question at issue is, what ballots should be counted for Mr. Bartlett, and what for Mr. McIntire. The case depends upon the result of a correct count made under the rules of law.

By agreement of parties, after the case was ripe for a hearing, I referred certain features of the count to certain commissioners residing in different parts of the county. These commissioners ascertained and reported to me the condition of the ballot in each town so far as agreed by the parties. They numbered serially all the disputed ballots in each town, and returned them to me.

By the returns of the commissioners it appeared the whole number of ballots cast for sheriff was 7,648. Of these the parties agreed that 3,403 should be counted for Bartlett, and 3,320 for McIntire. They also agreed that there were 37 defective Bartlett ballots, and 36 defective McIntire ballots. The returns of the commissioners also show that there were 92 ballots which the parties agreed were indeterminate, that is, that it was not possible to determine for which candidate the voter intended to vote, and that there were 38 other ballots which the parties failed to agree were indeterminate, but did agree were in other respects defective, and not to be counted. The remaining 722 ballots were disputed. And of the disputed ballots, 319 were Bartlett ballots and 403 McIntire ballots.

I met the parties and their counsel at the Court House in Paris, December 29, 30 and 31, 1910, and examined each of the disputed ballots, after which I heard arguments. I then proceeded to determine the ballots which I thought should be counted for Bartlett, those which should be counted for McIntire, and the ones which I thought were defective. These ballots were then counted by counsel in my presence with the following results:—Bartlett, 254; McIntire, 332; defective, 136; total, 722.

I have since carefully examined each disputed ballot. I have not found any reason to reject any ballot which was counted in the first place, but I have determined, not without hesitation, to add three ballots (Andover 5, Rumford 85 and Rumford 92) to the Bartlett count, and five (Albany 2, Hebron 2, Norway 23, Norway 24 and Stoneham 2) to the McIntire count. These ballots of course were some which at the first count I was inclined to regard as defective. Accordingly my final count of the disputed ballots gives Bartlett 257, McIntire 337, defective 128; total 722. Adding the disputed ballots which I have counted for each party to the number which it is admitted should be counted for each party respectively, the result is Bartlett 3,660, McIntire 3,657.

I have tabulated the details of the count, by towns, as well as by ballots, upon two tables. (Table 1, Table 2) which are self explanatory. I annex these Tables to these findings and make them a part thereof.

The number of disputed ballots makes it impractible for me to give the reasons for counting or rejecting each separate ballot. But the case is of such importance, that I think I ought to give the principles by which I sought to be governed, and which I have applied as well as I could. A few such general principles will cover all except a few exceptional cases. Many questions have arisen which have not heretofore been specifically decided in this State. I have been much aided by the decisions of the courts in other states. My aim, while following our own decisions as far as they have gone, has been to give effect to every ballot so far as it can be done, under the rules for counting ballots under the Australian ballot system.

A. To be counted, the ballot must be marked by a cross, and "in the appropriate place," namely, the square above the party group.

B. A cross is ordinarily made by two lines crossing each other. The lines need not be necessarily be straight. But they should not be so crooked or irregular as to make it appear that the voter made them so designedly, for in each case they are distinguishing marks. A single line is not a cross. Neither is a check mark, nor is a nondescript mark of any kind. When more than two lines have appeared in the square, I have discriminated in this way. If they have appeared to have been made inadvertently and accidently, or made for the purpose of retracing lines previously made with more or less distinctness, in an effort to make the mark more certain, or when apparently at the first attempt to mark, the wood of the pencil made an impression on the paper, but left no lead mark, I have counted the ballots, although in some instances the voter made separate marks, but so near the first ones as to indicate that it was intended as a retracing. But when the extra marks were so separated from the first marks as to indicate that they were not intended as a retracing, but were made intentionally, and perhaps carelessly, I have not counted the ballots. I have bourne in mind the well known facts, that voting booths sometimes are not well lighted, that the boards on which the marking is done are not always smooth, that there are infirmities of eyesight, that men are sometimes nervous and that hands are sometimes tremulous, even when their owners are accustomed to the use of pen or pencil, much more so when they are not. I think due allowance should be made for all these things.

C. When double crosses, or two or more crosses are made in the same square, or where crosses are made in two or more squares, the ballot is not to be counted, and this is so, even when all but one of the crosses have been erased wholly or in part. I have made an exception to this rule when it appeared that the voter in making the second cross in the square was attempting to retrace the first one. These ballots I have counted.

D. Crosses may be made by ink, or by a pencil mark of any color.

E. Crosses may be made of any size within the square. And I have counted ballots when one of the lines has apparently been extended slightly outside the square inadvertently.

F. When the ballot showed that the voter, besides making a cross in the square intentionally, although it may be carelessly, made any writing (except such as the statute provides) or any other cross, or mark of any kind upon the ballot, I regarded it as a distinguishing mark, and did not count the ballot.

G. But when it appeared affirmatively by inspection that a mark had been made on the ballot inadvertently or accidently, and not for an evil purpose, I have not regarded it as a distinguishing mark within the meaning of the law, and have counted such ballots.

H. Names on a ballot may be erased by drawing a pencil through them, or by scratching, but not by marking a cross upon them, for that is a voting mark.

I. Crosses or other marks, erasures and stickers in another column than the one voted by marking in the square are distinguishing marks. I have not counted such ballots.

J. Crosses and other marks (except erasures of names and the use of stickers, or writing in names) in the column voted or near its margin, are distinguishing marks, whether they have been erased or not. This includes lines not drawn so as to erase names.

K. A sticker upon which no name is printed, pasted over name of candidate, is a distinguishing mark.

L. If a sticker entirely cover the designation of office, or if the designation be erased, the ballot cannot be counted. But when a sticker is so placed that enough of the top parts of the letters of the designation of office remains so that it can be seen by the eye what the office was, the vote should be counted. In this case, I counted several ballots for Mr. McIntire under this rule.

M. If a sticker be used and the name of the other candidate not erased, the ballot cannot be counted for either candidate.

N. Ballot mutilated by cutting out name of a candidate, cannot be counted.

O. Ballot cannot be counted when voter has written upon it any words except, as the statute provides.

P. It being admitted that there is not the name of any McIntire on any of the check list in the country of Oxford whose initals are "B. G." except that of Bertrand G. McIntire, the defendant, I have counted for him all ballots on which "B. G. McIntire" was voted for for sheriff. I have also counted for Mr. McIntire ballots on which were broken stickers on which appears "rand G. McIntire" "trand G. McIntire and "rand G. McIntire", also a ballot marked "Bertrand McIntire". But ballot on which apeared the first word "McIntire" under the designation of office, or the name "Bertneed McIntire", and nothing else appeared to show the intention of the voter, I have felt that I could not, under the rules of law, count the ballot for the defendant.

Q. There are four ballots on which Mr. Bartlett's name is erased, and a McIntire sticker is placed underneath the erased name. The counsel for the petitioner contend that such a use of a sticker invalidates the ballot for that office, inasmuch as the statute says a sticker may be placed "on and over" the name of a candidate' etc. The counsel for the defendant very earnestly contend that these votes are properly marked, and that the statute, especially when read in the light of previous legislation and decisions does not forbid this way of using a sticker. I have much doubt. But since to count the ballots will give effect to the manifest intention of the voters, I have decided to resolve my doubt in this case in favor of the ballots, and if the case goes up to the law court, to let it go in this form. I have counted these ballots for McIntire.

R. I have not called any ballot defective because of the fault or failure of the election officers.

It only remains to give in detail a statement of the defective ballots and of the reasons why they are so considered.

Dated January 3, 1911.

Young Man Without a Business.

Among the most helpless of human beings is the young man without a business which he thoroughly understands. The more respectable he is, and the more respectable his family, the more helpless and hopeless he becomes. If there is no one thing which he can do well, he must either depend upon his parents and others for support, in which case about the only good he is to humanity is as a consumer of provender and clothing, or he must go forth into the world to live more or less by his wits.

Usually a man of this kind has very little moral stamina, and he will come to the conclusion that the world owes him a living, which he must collect in some way, and as a rule he often lands in jail. It is a noteworthy fact that the majority of our criminals are young men between the ages of twenty and twenty-eight; and we suspect that investigation would show that the reason why these young men are criminals is because they have no business which they understand. The ancient Jews required every man to learn a trade, whether he was ever likely to use it or not. Paul was college bred, and yet he had learned in his youth the trade of tent-maker; so that wherever he went in a country where tents were made, he could be of some service to humanity.

The farmer who allows his boy to reach twenty-one without being started toward learning a business makes the mistake of his life. He has one of the best lines of business in the world; but if the boy is too smart to farm (that is, thinks he is) and wants to follow some other line, then, unless he sets to work and learns it, he is in very serious danger.

The young man who goes out into the world without a business of some sort must either steal in one way or another, or else he must set to work to learn. The probability is that he will get lower and lower in the scale until he finds some occupation where all that is required of him is brute strength. And this is the place for him to get, if he is ever to be a man; for there is nothing that will stiffen up a limp backbone so surely as doing day's work or week's work, anything that will get him into the closest kind of contact with human realities.

Most men who have had any very close contact with actual life have met often with these derelicts, who have attained their majority and more without having acquired any trade or business by which they could compensate the world for their living.

Some of them are college bred; some have been raised in fine families; some have high connections; yet there is nothing they can do. They say in effect, "I cannot dig; to beg I am ashamed." They insist on doing work that is respectable, but they have not learned to do any respectable work. Their mode of life, their training, has given them large wants, and they have no means of gratifying them. If they have no moral backbone they become crooks.

The only safe way is that of the prodigal son. When they get down to husks, there is then some possibility of developing some sort of manhood.

If the farmer wishes his children to be a blessing, let him first accustom them to work. He can do that. Second, let him train them in the idea that the world does not owe them anything except payment for the services that they can render. The higher the service they can render, the greater the payment to which they are entitled, whether they can ever get it or not. They can at least be honest. Even the dishonest men in the world place a high estimate on honesty.

If the boy does not like farming, if the father does his duty and treats him as a father should treat a son, he at least has the foundation essential to success; industry, economy and the good constitution, with what education the rural school affords. Then he should determine what business he would like to follow, and during all the years of his early life say: "This one thing I do." If this policy is followed, he will not be a waif or a derelict, a cumber of the ground, or a paracite on society. About the most helpless man in the world is the man who has no business or calling, no work that he can do at least reasonably well.

Stoop Ye Not Low.

Stoop ye not low in labor nor love,
Lest to the heights you may never attain;
In the Book of Life that is kept above,
All is recorded, your loss and gain.

Stoop ye not low, lest a lowly mien
Cover your countenance day by day;
Never a mark remains unseen
In the trail you make over life's highway

Stoop thou not low, lest thy footsteps trend,
Through power of habit, you follow along;
Each day of life helps fashion the end,
Be it doom of hell or the realm of song.

A Native of Oxford Co.

Senator James B. Mullen of Bangor was stricken suddenly in Augusta, Jan. 5th, and died in the evening of heart disease and pneumonia.

Senator Mullen was one of the leading pulp and paper mill contractors in New England. He was born in Paris, 59 years ago and received his early education in the public schools and later attended the Portland Commercial College. Early in life he removed to Old Town, where he took a prominent part in all the city's affairs, being a member of the city government and also president of the board of aldermen.

He was local manager of the Penobscot Chemical Fibre Co. mills. He was one of the pioneers in the pulp business and many pulp industries availed themselves of his valuable services. He built the power plant of the Great Northern at Millinocket and a number of concrete dams along the Penobscot and Kennebec were constructed under his charge.

Senator Mullen was a member of the House of Representatives in 1905-07 and was a Senator during the 1909 session. Recognized all over the State as one of the ablest men in his party his loss will be felt keenly.

Millions of Lives.

An Awful Toll Collected by Consumption. Many Unnecessary Deaths.

If people could only understand that systemic catarrh is an internal disease that external applications cannot cure, they would not need to be warned so often about this "melody, which, when neglected, paves the way oftentimes for consumption, at the cost of millions of lives every year. Yet catarrh may be cured, if the right treatment is employed.

The only way to successfully treat catarrh is by employing a medicine which is absorbed and carried by the blood to all parts of the system, so that the mucous membrane or internal lining of the body is toned up and made capable of resisting the infection of consumption and other diseases.

We have a remedy prepared from the prescription of a physician who for thirty years studied and made catarrh a speciality, and whose record was a patient restored to health in every case where his treatment was followed as prescribed. That remedy is Rexall Mucu-Tone. We are so positive that it will completely overcome catarrh in all its various forms, whether acute or chronic, that we promise to return every penny paid us for the medicine, in every case where it fails or for any reason does not satisfy the user.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our recommendation and guarantee. We are right here where you live, and you do not contract any obligation or risk when you try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. We have Rexall Mucu-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Very often the taking of one 50-cent bottle is sufficient to make a marked impression upon the case. Of course in chronic cases a longer treatment is necessity. The average in such instances is three $1.00 bottles. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Norway only at our store,—The Rexall Store. F. P. Stone, Main street.

The Scrap Book

Things He Didn't Understand.

At the table on an incoming liner on a recent trip one of the first cabin passengers found in an oyster one of the tiny seed pearls which look almost exactly like bird shot. Apparently the formation of pearls was a mystery to him, for he examined the thing curiously, picked it up gingerly and laid it on the tablecloth for further investigation.

Now, it is a habit of cooks at sea to carry fishhooks in their pockets, and on this trip, by a curious coincidence, part of a small hook got caught in a piece of beefsteak that was served to this particular passenger. As soon as his knife encountered the hard object he started, picked it out carefully and laid it beside his other find on the cloth.

Then he beckoned to the waiter and confidently whispered in his ear. "I don't want to be impertinent," he said, "but would you mind telling me where you shoot your oysters and why you catch your steaks with a hook and line?"

A Home Song.

I turned an ancient poet's book
And found upon the page,
"Stone walls do not a prison make Nor iron bars a cage."

Yes, that is true, and something more—
You'll find where'er you roam
That marble floors and gilded walls
Can never make a home.

But every house where love abides.
And friendship is a guest
Is surely home, and home, sweet home,
For there the heart can rest.

—Henry van Dyke.

He Was Not Surprised.

"What kind of ducks are these?" asked the visitor in the ornithological department at the museum.

"Labrador," said the attendant. "We paid $1,000 for those two specimens."

"Gosh," exclaimed the visitor, turning to his wife, "he says they paid $1,000 for 'em! I've bought finer ducks for half a dollar many a time. What have you got 'em in that glass case for?" he inquired, addressing the guide again.

"Because they are about the most notable exhibit we have. Those birds were shot in 1856. Labrador ducks are now extinct."

"He says," exclaimed the visitor, turning to his wife once more, "they put 'em in that glass case because they haven't a pleasant odor. And I don't wonder at it. They were shot in 1856."

The Only Thing to Do.

The old veteran had paused in his reminiscences and was mopping his brow, while his audience waited impatiently, thinking he had left off.

"I recollect," he continued dreamily, "that at the battle of Alma I had a very excitin' time. Bullets were peltin' upon us like rain, men fell right and left, cannon roared like thunder itself, and, worst of all, the enemy had managed to get within a hundred yards of our position. I was mad with excitement and wasn't thinkin' of anything except just fightin' for all I was worth. All of a sudden I turned and found that my regiment had changed its position, and I was cut off—left to the mercy of the enemy, sir!"

The veteran paused. He always does at the most exciting part. He finds it amusing.

"Well, what did you do?" asked an impatient listener.

"Do?" said the old fellow sternly. "Well, I reckon I did a mile in three minutes!"—St. Paul Dispatch.

The Way He Scored.

Sir Charles Todd was for many years at the head of the Adelaide observatory and was the chief of the South Australian weather bureau. Once when visiting one of the smaller towns of the colony he called on a man who had gained a local reputation as a weather prophet. Without disclosing his identity Sir Charles said to him:

"I dabble a little in weather predicting myself. Would you mind telling me how you arrive at your conclusions?"

"Oh, that's easy enough," was the reply. "There's an old cove in Adelaide called Todd who puts in the papers what he thinks the weather's going to be, and I always put just the opposite to what he says, and that's the way I score."

Some Puns.

The best pun in the English language is Tom Hood's:

He went and told the sexton,
And the sexton tolled the bell.

The worst pun is that of the man who fell into a ditch and rose with the remark, "How very ditchtressing!"

Dr. Johnson said that the pun was the lowest order of wit, but to this Goldsmith replied, "The pun, in other words, is the foundation of wit, eh?"

Every Latin master likes to tell his boys two puns. The first is a punning derivation of restaurant: "Res, a thing; taurus, a bull; a bully thing." The other is a derivation of virgin: "Vir, a man; gin, a trap; a man trap."

Among newspaper humorists the pun is dying out. In the old days, the good old days, the Burlington Hawkeye man and the Norristown Herald man and the Arkansaw Traveler man would pun at each other like this:

We don't care a straw what Shakespeare said—a rose by any other name would not smell as wheat.—Arkansaw Traveler.

We have made an oat of the above.—Burlington Hawkeye.

Such puns are barely tolerable. They amaize us, they arouse our righteous corn, and they turn the public taste a-rye.—Norristown Herald.

Ghosts Around

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

Old Peter Baines had lived alone on the outskirts of Taylorsville for a dozen years, attracting no attention. Then some villager saw a ghost. Peter asked the full particulars and was thenceforth considered a believer in ghosts.

Next he inherited $15,000; then his neighbors began to pay him marked attention.

Miss Nancy Beebe, an old maid of nearly forty, had never married because she was homely and had no money. Miss Prudence Higgins was in the same fix. The widow Henderson could marry again if she had a couple of thousand; so could the widow Drew. Mrs. John White was a married woman, but while her husband was a carpenter she had aristocratic tastes and couldn't carry them out for the want of money.

These five women not only heard that old Peter believed in ghosts, but each one arranged her program to have a ghost pay him a midnight visit. He hadn't got his money yet when one night at the most solemn hour and while he was sleeping with his window open a scratching on the casing awoke him to ask what was wanted. It was the first night he had ever been disturbed.

"Peter," said a hollow voice that started the sweat on him, "Nancy Bebee is very unhappy!"

"Is that so?" he replied.

"Yes, and it rests with you to make her happy. I am the ghost of her dead mother. I charge you to give her the sum of $2,000 as soon as you get your money. She will marry, and she will bless you. Fail not, Peter—fail not—lest the smallpox comes to you!"

"She shall have it," replied Peter as he looked out of the window and saw an object in white gliding away. On the next night he was wide awake, but lying on his bed, when a second ghost paid him a visit. He had figured that there was more than one ghost in the world and that there might be another caller. He heard a soft rustling, a cold breeze blew in at the window, and a scary voice announced:

"Peter Baines, do good with your money or you will be found dead. Prudence Higgins is a sad, sad girl. She may commit suicide. If she does you will be to blame for it. You can save her life and make her happy by giving her $2,000. Do it, Peter, and live to be a hundred years old."

"Yes, I'll do it. I want to live to be a hundred. What ghost are you?"

"Her grandmother's."

And another white object floated over the grass and through a gap in the fence and was swallowed up in the gloom of night. Some men would have gone around telling what they had seen, but old Peter kept a still tongue and prepared himself for other visits from other ghosts. Where there were two there must be three, the same as crows. He reasoned correctly. On the third night a third ghost appeared. She was being waited for, and old Peter was not so badly scared when a voice reached his ear, saying:

"Peter, grim death is all around you! It flies on wings and stalks on legs. It looks for a victim. It stands at yon gate and stares at your house."

"But tell it to pass on," replied Peter. "I want to live to be a hundred years old."

"Then do as I tell you. You know the widow Drew. Make her happy. Give her a chance. When you get your money give her $1,000. It is little to you, but much to her."

"Wouldn't a hundred do?" asked old Peter as he began to feel stingy.

"Shall I beckon to death to come and enter this window?" menaced the ghost.

"No, no, no! The widder shall have her thousand. I didn't know but a hundred would do, but I see it won't. Whose ghost are you?"

"That of a gypsy woman who was murdered. Beware of my anger. Do not play me false. I go—I go—I go!"

And she "goed." She seemed to get hung for a moment in the gap, and the old man thought he heard the ripping of cloth, but she got clear and disappeared before he was sure. He didn't want any more ghosts in his. He had seen three and promised $5,000 out of his legacy. The pace was too hot. Next night he shut and nailed down the window, but it was in vain. The fourth ghost came and announced that he must provide for the widow Henderson or prepare to be haunted all the rest of his life by evil spirits. He hung off for a few minutes, but the sighs and groans and scratchings on the glass were too much for him. The widow Henderson was to receive $1,500 in cash.

On the next night old Peter took some bedding and lay down under the currant bushes, where no fifth ghost could find him. He kept wide awake and alert. At midnight he saw ghost No. 5 appear. She glided for his bedroom window. She was just about to appeal to him when four other ghosts showed up. The five stood and looked at each other for a moment. Then human voices were heard calling names. Then human hands and feet moved, and the five ghosts were clawing and scratching and mixing things up, and when the scrap was over old Peter turned out of his nest and found five badly torn and mussed bed sheets lying on the grass, along with combs, hairpins and other things. None ever came back, and he saved his cash.

Our Forests.

The News and Critic of Laconia, N. H., says editorially: "The movement to increase the tax on timber lands may have a tendency to reduce the timber if pushed too far and that is precisely what we are not aiming at. It is a problem that cannot be solved without the utmost caution. The increase might also put the timber lands into the hands of monopolists as the small owners might be unable to pay the added burden to ownership."

This is true and it is amusing to read the speeches of Ex-Presidents, Ex-Governors and others, and read the newspapers pleading for forests to enhance the value and beauty of the State, and to see the law makers make laws to tax the small timber lots of the farmers out of existence, decrease the value of the farms, make a country of bushlands that no self respecting American farmer would live in if he could get money enough together to get out, make a land of deserted farms and replace the progressive nature farmer with his family of bright boys and girls, the hope and pride of the country, with a foreign population of oftentimes poor farmers.

"You are very wrong to allow any exceptions whatever, my dear woman. You ought not to allow him to smoke under any possible circumstances, even once."

"But, my dear woman, this morning he simply had to smoke. His coat was on fire."

MONTH OF FREE TREATMENT

Including Consultation and a Thorough Examination by the Wonderful X Ray. UNTIL JAN. 21ST.

The Electro Medical Specialists at Beal's Hotel, Norway, Me., in order to demonstrate their skill and more rapidly extend their system of treatment in the cure of chronic cases by their new and improved methods will give all patients who begin or renew a course of treatment on or before Jan. 21st, one month's treatment, including all medicines, Absolutely Free. This liberal offer will bring the cost of a course of treatment sufficient to cure the most obstinate curable chronic diseases within the reach of all.

Anyone suffering with any form of chronic disease can avail themselves of this liberal offer. It is limited only as to time. It is clear that such an offer cannot be continued indefinitely.

The X-Ray is the most marvelous discovery of the age. By its aid the Doctor is able to read disease as an open book, and cure when others fail. X-Ray examinations are made through all the clothing without causing any unpleasantness whatever. Do not give up until you have had an X-Ray examination by the Specialist. You may be more easily cured than you may think. Marvelous cures are made by their new system.

Why Women Are Sick and How They Can Be Cured.

Because of sickness many women get all the troubles out of life, but enjoy none of the pleasures. They drag through a miserable life of suffering to a premature death, victims of female disease.

They earnestly try to get well. They take patent medicines because it is the cheapest; they visit the family doctor until they are tired of the useless humiliations; perhaps they fall into the hands of the fashionable surgeon, and he plunges his cruel knife into their bodies, and tears out the God-given organs of womanhood and leaves them invalids for life. But happily all of these methods are out of date. There is a better way. A way by which women can be cured and made as God intended—healthy, happy and vigorous women.

By their new German method a local examination is hardly necessary. The treatment can be used at home secretly.

If a woman has any of the symptoms below she has female disease and can be cured by this method better and at less expense than by any other.

Do you bloat?
Are you nervous or hysterica?
Do you have blue or melancholy spells or weep easily?
Are there dark rings under the eyes?
Has the face a "drawn" or "worn" expression?
Is there a dragging pain in the back or side?
Is there pain or tenderness above the groin?
Is there a bearing down, heavy, or dragging sensation?
Is there an ache in the head or neck?
Do you have cold or hot flashes?
Is there a heavy, numb, prickly feeling in the legs?
Are the periods painful, irregular, painful or excessive?
Have you a weakening discharge?
Are you weak and easily tired out?
Have you inflammation or ulceration resulting from colds or from child bearing?
Have you bladder trouble?
Is there smarting, swelling, itching or irritation?
Have you piles, fistula or constipation?
Is the abdomen large with dropsy or tumor?

If you have any of these symptoms mark them and send or bring this paper to Electro Medical Institute office, Beal's Hotel, and lay your case before the consulting physician. Your health means much to you.

He cures not only consumption in its first stages but other chronic diseases.

Blood Diseases—Scrofula, all kinds of Tumors, Diseases of the stomach and Digestive Tract.

Those fearful Nervous Diseases of men and women, no matter from what cause arising, Paraly is, Headache, Prostration, Lame Back, Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Rheumatism.

Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, Male Troubles, Weakness (no matter from what cause)

Diseases of Women—Ulceration, Displacements, Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Painful or Suppressed Menstruation.

Women who are racked with pain in the pelvis, side, back or head, or suffering from nervousness and many troubles peculiar to their sex can find speedy relief and permanent cure without examination.

Young men who are beginning to suffer the mental and nervous retribution for early folly may avoid the consequences by seeking the aid of science.

There are others who see their vital energies wasting away, unmindful of the fate that awaits them, perhaps in the near future. Such persons should have a confidential talk with the Doctor who can save them from weakening of the mind, nervous prostration, melancholia, insanity and impotence.

There are middle-aged men prematurely old, weak when they should be strong, who are guaranteed a perfect restoration to physical and nervous power.

Office in Beal's Hotel, Norway, Me.

Consultation Free Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week.

Hours 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 4 and 7 to 8 p. m., except Sundays.

Utterly Wretched

Nervous Prostration Long Endured Before Remedy was Found.

Miss Minerva Reminger, Upper Bern, Pa., writes: "For several years I had nervous prostration, and was utterly wretched. I lived on bread and beef tea because my stomach would not retain anything else. I took many remedies, but obtained no relief until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, when I began to gain at once. Am now cured."

Pure, rich blood makes good, strong nerves, and this is why Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and enriches the blood, cures so many nervous diseases.

Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolated tablets called Sarsatabs.

Coarse sandpaper should be kept in the kitchen and used for scrubbing kettles that are burned and for removing anything that has stuck to the pan in the process of cooking.

New I. O. O. F. Building.

The new I. O. O. F. building which was commenced first of the summer is progressing rapidly and will probably be finished about the middle of February. The plastering has been all completed and the carpenters are now putting on the finishings. The floors have not been layed yet but will be very shortly.

The building is entered by means of covered stairs between the Abbott Block and the I. O. O. F. Block. At the left of the enterance is the court room, 18x36, with two private rooms for the judge, at the rear of court room.

A wide corridor extends the length and width of the building with a flight of stairs leading to the hall. At the right of the stairs are the rooms for the telephone company and includes a good sized store room, managers room and the operating room and under the stairs is a small waiting room. There are also four rooms for private offices on the Main Street, side, and two toilet rooms at the upper part of the hall. On the third floor at the left of the stairs is the men's coat room and at the right is the women's. At the left there is a kitchen and extending from the kitchen entire length of the hall is the paraphernalia or property room. The lodge room which is 28x36 is entered by two large double doors from the anti-room at the head of the stairs. When this is all completed the Odd Fellows will possess a fine building with all modern improvements.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Bad Sliding Accident.

The first sliding accident this year occurred Friday evening at about 8:30 on Pleasant street. The double runner known as the "Red Devil" started down Pleasant street hill as usual and going at a terrific rate of speed was unable to make the slight turn near J. H. Hazen's, probably on account of the breaking of the shaft connecting the sled and the steering wheel. The double ran into the iron railing over the brook below Hazen's and threw part of the occupants into the brook. Leona McKay, Anna Brooks, May Smith, Dorothy Tubbs, Abe Klain, Knox Bickford and Ernest Brown were on the double at the time of the accident. Anna Brooks was the most seriously injured as her leg was broken in two places just below the hip. The others were badly bruised and scratched but not seriously hurt. All were stunned for a short time but recovered so as to walk to their homes except Leona McKay, Anna Brooks and May Smith, who were carried home.

Pleasant street is considered one of the safest places to coast that there is anywhere around and had the steering arrangement not given way the accident would not have happened, and under the circumstances it is very fortunate for the young people that the accident was not any worse.

Miss Brooks, who was injured, is the daughter of C. W. Brooks and is a member of the senior class of the Norway High school.

John C. Shepard has a fine looking, newly painted milk pung.

Charles Frost found about twenty little grasshoppers on his kitchen window and he now has them in a glass jar as a curiosity. They were about one-fourth of an inch long. They think they might have come from the earth in which plants were growing.

Mrs. Albert Richardson is a good horsewoman as was proved Friday by the way she guided her horse down Main street. The horse was going at a rapid pace but she went by the numerous teams in safety, crossed the car track, and finally drove to mill for a load of grain.

Samuel Smith of Harrison, who passed his 83d mile stone last month was in town, Monday. He is as spry and quick-witted as ever. He says the bushes ought to be cut on the roadside from Woodchuck Corner some way toward the town bridges. The snow bent them into the road and made it difficult to travel the highway. The fixing of this piece of road belongs to the town of Otisfield, we think.

The officers of Mt. Hope Rebekah lodge No. 58, were installed Friday evening Jan. 6, by the District Deputy Pres. Eva M Kimball and staff, consisting of Ada A. Libby, as grand marshal; Maggie L. A Festival of Pie.

That is what the ADVERTISER has been having, and the famous Buckfield custard pie is not in it.

Thursday afternoon at about 2 o'clock, Jan. 6, 1911, the forms were running merrily on the press and there was every prospect that the edition would come out on time when a crash and a yell told the story. Two forms of type, equal to two pages of the ADVERTISER'S pages had slid off the press, and one form dissolved itself into all its component parts. The other form with more regard for the ADVERTISER readers and the office force "went easy" and only about two sticks full went into that delectable "pie".

Only a small fraction of the edition was off. There was nothing to be done but set up the type again for the form that once was but now was not. The force buckled to, and at five o'clock the ADVERTISER was again in the race as fresh as a daisy, but the greater part of the afternoon "mail had been lost".

The morning mail contained the belated ADVERTISER. It took till noon the next day before the last dish of pie disappeared in it's usual place in the cases

Celebrate Their Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Merrill Spurr quietly observed their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at their home, 370 Westford street, Lowell, Mass., and were congratulated by their immediate friends.

Laura G. Adams and Joseph M. Spurr were married Jan. 1, 1861, Rev. J. L. Jenkins, then pastor of the First Congregational church, officiating. One daughter was born to them and she died in 1889.

Mr. Spurr was born in Otisfield in 1851, and came to Lowell in 1859 from Woburn, where he had been a resident but a short time. Mr. Spurr is seventh in descent from Robert Spurr, who left Gravesend, Eng., in 1631, and settled in Dorchester, Mass.

His grandfather, Joseph Spurr, went from Wrentham, Mass., and settled in Otisfield in 1779. His father, Samuel Spurr, was born in Otisfield, and his mother was a native of Blue Hill.

In August, 1862, Mr. Spurr enlisted at Lynnfield, Mass., in Co. H, 33d Massachusetts regiment. He was the guide of his company at the battle of Wauhatchie, Oct. 29, 1863, and was shot through the fleshy portion of his left arm. The bullet broke two of his ribs and was removed from the pit of his stomach. Mr. Spurr was reported dead at that time.

He was given the bullet by the surgeon and still retains it.

As the result of the wound Mr. Spurr was discharged and returned when able to Lowell. He has in his possession the rubber blanket carried by him during the Civil War. He also has a flute which he picked from the field at Gettysburg on the second day, when the 33d Massachusetts regiment reached there.

Mr. Spurr for some time after the Civil War was employed by the late J. W. B. Shaw in his store in Merrimack street. Later he began the manufacture of shirts. This he continued in Shattuck street here until 1903, when he retired.

Mrs. Spurr, who is not in good health, was born in Derry, N. H., July 4, 1842. Her father, Joseph R. Adams, was an overseer in the Stark mills in Manchester, N. H., and her mother's maiden name was Almira Farnham. The Adams family came to Lowell in 1857.—[Lowell Courier.

BETHEL.

Chester Wheeler has moved his family to Gilead to live with Mrs. Wheeler's father.

Mrs. Levi Bartlett, who was operated upon at Dr. King's Hospital in Portland, is quite comfortable. Her daughter, Mrs. Tyler, has returned home to Bethel.

Mrs. Rupert Coffin and baby son of Dorchester, Mass., are visiting her aunt, Mrs. Alice Farwell, and calling on friends in Bethel, where she formerly lived. She will spend several weeks at her mother's home in Gilead.

One of Bethel's aged citizen, William Merrill, passed away suddenly at his home, Thursday night. He had a short illness of two days of acute indigestion. He leaves a wife, two sons and two daughters to mourn his loss. He was a member of the Methodist church. The funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon, Rev. C. L. Banghart officiating.

Health For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Coloma, Wisconsin.—"For three years I was troubled with female weakness, irregularities, backache and bearing down pains. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking several bottles I found it was helping me, and I must say that I am perfectly well now and can not thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. John Wentland, R. F. D., No. 3, Box 60, Coloma, Wisconsin.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

Gumption on the Farm.

Do not try the patience of the good wife by giving her green wood to burn.

Many a man wears himself out trying to keep up with his good intentions.

Whitewash your barn, but never undertake to whitewash a crooked politician.

You are better than you seem, better than you believe yourself to be. So don't give way to discouragement.

There are more people dying for the lack of a kind word, a pat on the back and a little encouragement, than there are from disease.

Hot water on the grindstone will spoil it after a little so that it will have no grit. Use warm water, not hot, for taking the frost out of your stone.

What a lot of strength there is wasted chopping with dull axes. Spend a few minutes at the grindstone and see how nicely the world will go after that.

Some folks make themselves so lame kicking about things, that they tire themselves all out and never make anything out of it. It doesn't pay.

The boys and girls get enough hard knocks out in the world without your being stern and harsh with them. Let your home be to them a shelter and a refuge from the storms of the world.

Gets pretty slippery around the house and barn some times. Get a barrel of sand, coal ashes or sawdust, and when such days come, scatter some on the icy spots. Easier to save bones than to mend them.

"Who pays the taxes?" asks Wallace's Farmer. So far as we have been able to discover pretty nearly every body pays. The tax collector is as relentless as death and few are able to side-step him.

It helps the wagon-maker to let the mud freeze to the wheels when you come in from a trip. You don't need to do it through. By taking a little pains you get most of the mud off while it is soft and to save the wagon many years longer.

Do not track mud into the house. Provide a scrapper and mat outsied the door and do not forget to use them before going into the house. Scrubbing floors and sweeping carpets are not easy tasks and the thoughtful man will not add to his wife's burdens.

The horse blankets get torn sometimes. Some blustery day, take a stout needle and thread and see what a good job you can do mending the rents. It is a good thing for the men folks to do such little jobs as this, and not call on the women so much. They have their own work to do every day.

If you are thinking of moving, better look around first to see if the times, energy and money you would spend seeking a new location would not, if wisely spent about the old place, be an increase of profit and comfort that would justify you in staying with the old home. Better do this than be sorry.

To keep plows from rusting. To three pounds of tallow mix one pound of white lead. Melt the tallow in an old iron pot, stir in the white lead. When using, heat the mixture and apply it with an old paint brush. In the spring just put the plow in the ground. This will clean the mold-board as bright in a few yards as it was before. The same applies to any farm tool used for cultivating.—[Farm Journal.

The annual three weeks' Short course in Poultry Husbandry at the University of Maine will be held under the auspices of the Poultry Department of the College of Agriculture Feb. 1st to 21st inclusive, 1911. It will be followed by a three days' Poultry Institute, Feb. 21st, 22d and 23d.

Letter Writing Hints.

In writing letters, a woman should keep in mind the following rules:

Business letters must be concise and clear, because business people are supposed to be busy.

No letter is complete without the date.

In writing to solicit employment of any kind, on no account should personal perplexities or needs be mentioned. The world is full of unfortunate persons, and to a stranger, the troubles of one are no more than those of a host of others.

Letters of introduction are left open when written.

Elaborately ornamented note-paper, as well as highly perfumed notes, are vulgar.

When answering letters remember:

That written words stand as everlasting witnesses.

That an ambiguous sentence is likely to be misinterpreted.

That friendly words never harm.

That a written word of sympathy can sometimes do much good.

That a letter written in a kindly spirit should be answered in the same way, even though the message is disliked.

That business letters and invitations must be answered at once.

That a lady acknowledges any friendly offer or hospitality, even though it be not by acceptance.

Cabbage Plant Nine Feet High.

A cabbage plant nine feet high and with branches like a tree is a curiosity that can be seen in the yard of J. A. Poole of Santa Monica. Some time ago Mr. Poole planted a few cabbage seeds and in a remarkably short time the plant began to shoot up until it reached the height of nine feet and branched out like a regular tree. On these branches are small, firm cabbage heads and when Mrs. Poole wishes one for dinner she goes out and cuts one off and before she knows it another comes in its place. The tree is straight and firm and looks for all the world like a regular planted fruit tree. A picture has been taken of the plant with Mr. Poole and another man standing beside it and it shows clearly the height and proportions of the tree.

Automobile Trunk Lines.

From the State of New Hampshire to the State of Maine there are four main gateways of entrance which, from north to south, are as follows:

1. Lakeside, N. H.-Upton, Me.
2. Shelburne, N. H.-Gilead, Me.
3. North Conway, N. H. Fryeburg, Me.
4. Portsmouth, N. H. Kittery, Me.

At Upton the road forks the southern branch leads over the beautiful Grafton Notch, down the pretty valley of the Bear river to North Newry at Bethel and thence by way of Norway to Poland Spring and Lewiston.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

Women's real greatness consists in being able to cry over the little disappointments of life one laugh at the big ones.

If a woman could have all the new clothes she wanted and wasn't allowed to keep any old ones she would be perfectly miserable every rainy day she stayed at home.

A man has the same feeling when he is going home after proposing to a girl, that he has when he is going home from a funeral.

HEBRON.

Albert P. Given.

Albert P. Given one of the most respected citizens of Hebron, passed away Jan. 2d. after an illness of several months

He was born in Wales and had he lived until Jan. 3d, would have been 71 years of age. He leaves a widow, who was formerly Mary J. Garcelon and two children, Mrs. W. W. Harrington of Hebron and Edwin Given, who with his family lived at home, also two grandchildren.

Mr. Given has lived in Hebron nearly 50 years and always took an active interest in town affairs. He was a veteran of the Civil war, having served in the 1st Maine Cavalry. He was an honored member of Hebron Grange, having served several times as master.

Keeping Fresh Meat.

The spareribs, if kept frozen, are excellent, if frozen from early winter till spring, but alternate freezing and thawing injures them.

Several have tried the following with success: A small half barrel, like those used for pork, beef or lard, each costing ten cents at the stores. Fill the space between the two barrels with chopped ice (not too fine) as high as the top of the smaller barrel, no higher. Freeze any kind of fresh meat solid, then pack it in the small barrel, using no snow or ice with it. Place a cover over the smaller barrel and another over the large one. These exclude the air. If there is a long warm spell in winter, the ice may settle, if so, add some. The meat may be taken out as one needs it.

Before putting in the meat, three or four pieces of wood an inch or two in diameter, may be laid on the bottom of small barrel to keep the meat from sticking to it. Put no ice between the bottoms of the two barrels. Place the whole in a shed, or some cold place. A piece of cloth or paper may be put over the top of the large barrel, under its cover.

A fire in the block occupied by the Reporter at Berlin, N. H., caused a loss of about $20,000 on the building and $5 000 on the newspaper plant.

The Famous Rayo

Does Not Strain the Eyes

Don't use a small, concentrated light over one shoulder. It puts an unequal strain on your eyes. Use a diffused, soft, mellow light that cannot flicker, that equalizes the work of the eyes, such as the Rayo Lamp gives, and avoid eye strain.

The Rayo is designed to give the best light, and it does.

It has a strong, durable shade-holder that is held firm and true. A new burner gives added strength. Made of solid brass and finished in nickel. Easy to keep polished. The Rayo is low priced, but no other lamp gives a better light at any price.

Everybody Loves Home.

Everybody loves home. It is the secret treasure of their earthly joys. It is the sacred jewel casket and contains for them the world's greatest pleasures. They may be so unfortunate as not to own the house in which they live, but they consider it their home and they share with it their love. The pitiful beggars of our great cities know full well the meaning of home, though the curse of poverty cruelly robs them of its blessings and happiness.

And if you have a place to live you should be thankful. The thoughts of home cause emotions of gladness. Your place of permanent abode may not be a kindly palace; it may not be a princely castle; it may not be an aristocratic mansion; and it may not even be a pretty cottage; but whatever it is, be it a rude hut or a dilapidated shanty, the sweet influence of its mysterious charm is ever dear to your heart.

When the lonely wanderer is far away from his home, his wife, his children, his friends and everything that is dear to his memory, he will begin to think as though he never thought before of his land of birth and his kingdom of home.

True admirers of home enjoy a heaven on earth. They appreciate their homes. They, of course, realize that there is a great gulf between the home-owner and the homeless, but that does not crush the ambitions of the home-lover nor does it destroy the hopes of the homeseeker.

There is yet a little hope for those who have no place to rest, but we are sad to say the road is all but smooth and the light is all but brilliant. To those who are so poor that they can never hope to owe a home the world is cold and dark and bare. The weary traveler, lost in a strange country, feels a passionate thrill as he thinks of the joys of home. The music of a human's voice is as sweet as the notes of an angel's harp. He worships a light in the darkness as his star of hope. Everything is so strange. He is sad. He is overcome with fatigue; he falls asleep; he dreams of home.

What is life without a home? Home makes life worth the living. A person without a home is an object of pity. Unless we all have homes how can we all ever be happy? Those who are endeavoring to secure a home, or improve the one they already have, have our sympathy. Home is not only a place to eat and sleep, but it is a place of pleasure and pastime. Beautiful pictures, lovely flowers, splendid music, loving kindness transfigures our home into an earthly paradise.

The Lewiston Journal.

The present session of the Legislature will be of peculiar interest to the people of Maine in that the work has come into the hands of legislators, most of whom have had little experience in shaping the business of the State. The Lewiston Evening Journal has made arrangements to give, each evening, the proceedings of the day in condensed form. One of the Journal's staff writers, constantly on the ground, will give vivid pen pictures of all the events of the Capitol, as well as illustrations of all features that will interest the Folks. There is no way in which full and early information of legislative and other matters about the State Capitol can be so well secured as through the medium of the Lewiston Evening Journal. While giving prominence to legislative matters, the ample columns of the Journal enable it to present its usual features, both news, illustrations, and pungent comment on current events. The price for the whole session is $1.50.

After subscribing for your home newspaper, we call your attention to the Lewiston Weekly Journal as a paper that will supplement it for general news. It will maintain its supremacy as an advocate of all Maine interests while the business and agricultural interests of the State are always especially promoted. It has a large corps of writers, always on the alert to chronicle every occurrence of news value, illustrating every salient feature. The Magazine, with its illustrated articles, is especially popular and much interest attaches to the Saturday Night Talks. The price in the U. S. is $2.00 a year. Trial subscriptions, 3 months only 50c. Try it once and you will make it your home paper.

A Mile A Minute.

The Moxie Company of Boston, have just published Vol. 1 of "Moxie Joy Rides" an attractive booklet of the automobiles used in their advertising campaign. They operate 54 large touring cars which during the past 10 years have visited more than 40,000 cities, towns and villages in 17 states. They have visited 250,000 stores and more than 40,000 people have been thus made familiar with the Moxie auto. The total mileage of the cars are more than 51 times around the earth. All this is of interest to Norway people and our home paper, because of this distinction in the issue of "Moxie Joy Rides".—"The Moxie auto and the Moxie men are treated very generously but to refer to the thousands upon thousands of these clippings would not be justified by the space at hand. As an illustration, however, we print from the Norway (Oxford County, Me.) ADVERTISER of September, 23, 1910. A Mile A Minute. Advertiser man made Record Auto. Trip in the "Moxie" on the Oxford County Fair Track". The story as written by Harry A. Packard is reprinted in full.

Success in Entertaining.

To be a good hostess, one must like the part.

Two things are essential to a successful party—agreeable guests and a good hostess. The first can be found pretty easily—most people are willing to be entertained. The second—well look out for a good hostess, she is as rare as strawberries in Winter.

The good hostess is she who likes entertaining—people generally do well the things they like. She likes having people—that is the great secret. She makes every one feel that they have given her pleasure by coming to her home, therefore she possesses the first great essential—geniality. There is no don't-care-whether-you-come-or-not sort of style; there is a warmth in voice and manner which spells "welcome" to the guest.

The good hostess wants her guests to enjoy themselves, and she lays her plans so that it is their own fault if they do not. The people who want to meet each other are bought together and left together.

The good hostess never fusses, although she has a quick eye to see when people have had enough of one another. She monopolizes no one, but she finds an opportunity of giving a little of her own time to each guest. No one is allowed to go away feeling that he must have been asked to "fill up". She distributes her favors evenly.

She makes it her business to see that her guests have a good time, and she leaves nothing to chance. Her plan of campaign is mapped out beforehand, although having no feeling in the matter if her scheme is suddenly upset. She knows that the happiest parties are the impromptu parties.

Finally, she feeds her guests, no one goes home "just starving". The procedure is quite simple, really. The good hostess remembers that the party is for the guests. She takes no pains to amuse herself, and consequently can give all her time and attention to them.

WEST LOVELL.

John Fox.

John Fox passed away at his home in Lovell, Jan. 1, 1911, aged 72 years.

Honest John, as he was generally known, is resting from his labors. He was a member of the G. A. R. Post at Center Lovell, also of the Christian church and a firm believer in a loving God who forgives our trespasses, and happiness in the hereafter.

When a mere boy his father died, leaving a widow and several children of whom John was the eldest, and at an age when other boys were at play; he was toiling early and late, caring for the mother and keeping the little family together. The sturdy youth so devoted to the home grew to manhood and through his long and useful life, he perpetuated those sterling qualities, which were manifested in those early years of his life. In 1861 he married Marietta Horr of Lovell. When his country called for soldiers he was one of the first to volunteer, and leaving his young bride with her parents, he marched to the front. During the three years he served, he fought in several battles.

As long as one of his company remains he will be remembered as the jolly lad and joker of them all, who cheered their hearts in time of impending slaughter, and sympathized with them when they were injured.

He was a carpenter by trade and many of the better class of buildings in this and adjourning towns were built under his superintendance.

He built for himself a substantial home over looking beautiful Lake Kezar and has since resided on the home farm. He accumulated quite a large property, by his energy, persistance and accurate estimate of timber values.

For many years he operated the Fox mill at Center Lovell and trained his boys in the business.

He leaves a widow with whom we sincerely mourn and five sons. Josiah H. of Lovell village, who operates the mill business known as J. H. Fox and Sons. J. Walter, associated with the Saco River Lumber Co.; William S., buyer for the Androscoggin Lumber Co., who with his wife so tenderly cared for him in his last illness; Lewis E., a lawyer at Bangor, and Guy R., employed by the Mason M'f'g. Co., at South Paris.

Cora died in infancy and Charley died several years ago aged 21 years.

Three brothers and two sisters survive, Lewis who resides in Pennsylvania, Nathaniel, William, Mrs. Mary Harriman and Mrs. Jane Hatch, all of Lovell.

There are thirteen grandchildren whom he idolized.

A devoted husband, a loving father and honest citizen has gone from our midst. A man to whom parents can point to their boys, as one honest man who succeeded. Honesty was his watchword and the sneak or indecent person with whom he came in contact were by him started aright or denounced in terms they were not apt to forget. He was strictly temperate and an ardent worker for the temperance cause.

In politics a staunch Republican. He will be much missed by the people who return to their cottages there next summer. He was genial and kindly, and it seldom occurred that there were no visiters in his home.

Elson Hammond, who has been teaching school in the Bartlett neighborhood, was taken ill. His mother, Mrs. Hammond of Canton, came Saturday and took him home.

GILEAD.

Earl Jordan and family went to Auburn, Saturday.

Edward Garneau and family have moved to our village from Shelburne.

James Kelly and Mrs. Whitman were united in marriage at the tavern Saturday evening, the ceremony being followed by a season of congratulations.

The sad intelligence was received on New Year's day that Mrs. T. G. Lary, who had been for several days suffering from pneumonia, passed from the earthly life about 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the closing day of the old year. The funeral services were on Wednesday, at 1 p. m. Mrs. Lary was the organist at our church, and at the time of her death was superintendent of schools in our town.

Gov. Plaisted is the seventh Augusta man to hold the position, the others being Joseph H. Williams, Lot. M. Morrill, Samuel Cony, Selden Connor, Edwin C. Burleigh and John Fremont Hill.

Good News.

Every Sufferer from Catarrh, Coughs, Colds and Sore Throats Should Read It.

So many hundreds of catarrh victims who have taken the HYOMEI treatment, have written us letters thanking us for publishing our method of taking the HYOMEI vapor treatment in connection with the inhaler that we gladly publish it again.

The vapor treatment is especially recommended in stubborn cases of chronic catarrh of long standing, but remember that the inhaler should be used daily as usual.

This is the simple vapor treatment and only takes five minutes of your time before going to bed. Pour a teaspoonful of HYOMEI into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for several minutes the vapor that arises.

You will be surprised at the result of this treatment; it makes the head feel fine and clear; you will sleep better, and that stuffed up feeling in the head will gradually disappear.

The same method will break up the worst cold in the head or chest in one night.

A bottle of HYOMEI costs 50 cents at Frank Kimball's, proprietor of the Noyes drug store, who guarantees it. If you want the complete outfit, which includes the little hard rubber pocket inhaler, the price is $1.00.

No stomach dosing; just breathe HYOMEI and cure catarrh and all diseases of the breathing organs. 52-2

WEST PARIS.

In the Sunny South.

Glowing accounts have been received from Mrs. Hattie B. Mooney of the place and climate in Florida, where she went this fall to spend the winter. She learned of this place through Dr. F. H. Packard, who went there last winter and invested in a lot of land there.

The place has been known as Abbott Station but now is a lively new colony called Zephyrhills, situated on the main line of the Seaboard Air Line railroad from Jacksonville 174 miles, to Tampa 38 miles. By automobile road it is only about 25 miles from Tampa.

A year ago there were but three old buildings, one a store and the other two abandoned, while now there are from 75 to 100 new buildings and more constantly being added. The high rolling lands fanned night and day by the gentle breezes from the Gulf and the Atlantic give it the very appropriate name of Zephyrhills.

Mrs. Mooney has bought a building lot and had a small bungalow surrounded by a broad piazza built upon it, where she is spending a most delightful winter out of doors most of the time. She has sent some of her friends here a picture of herself dressed in a white summer dress standing in front of her bungalow.

She has a little garden patch and a few hens for diversion. Her health is much better than last winter. Rheumatism has ceased to afflict her and the place is free from malaria. She walks two miles every other day for her milk and one of her neighbors who is from Naples, Me., goes on the intervening days. This is some better than she was able to do last winter, as all her acquaintances here know that on account of rheumatism she was kept constantly in doors all winter. Her friends here are very glad to hear of her welfare and glad for her.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bates have closed their house and gone to the Bermuda Islands for a couple of months. They started Monday and expect to visit their son Vernal in New Haven, Conn., a few days on the way.

Last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Chase, their eldest son Maynard gave a farewell party in honor of his cousin, Ivan Tuell. Twenty-six guests were pleasantly entertained. Refreshments were served.

The New Year social season opened very auspiciously at I. O. O. F. hall on Monday night, January 2d, the event being the New Year's ball, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Will Rice and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nason. The hall was very tastefully decorated for the occasion in red and green, under the direction of Mrs. Rice. At 9 o'clock the grand march was announced. It was headed by Mr. and Mrs. George Holt, Will Ray and Iva Rice. Excellent music was furnished by Packard's orchestra. A delicious lunch was served at intermission. All pronounced it a most enjoyable affair. The statement is fully sustained as it was well into the early morning hours before the party broke up. There will be a dance under the same management, Saturday evening, Jan. 14th.

The glass blowers while here gave a very interesting show and had a good house every night. They gave several prizes, which was quite an inducement. Iva Rice won the prize of a gold bowed berry spoon, gravy ladle, cold meat fork and pie knife, by vote as the most popular lady. Mr. and Mrs. Merton Hobson won a very handsome gold clock as the best waltzing couple. Mr. and Mrs Elmer Henley's baby won the diamond ring as the best looking baby. There was a little contest between three boys, Harry Morey, Donald Rice and Ted Brown. The contest was to see who could eat a doughnut hanging from a string, with their hands tied behind them, first. Harr Morey won 25c, and as Ted Brown was so small and didn't get a bite, he was given 10c. It was a very amusing to see the little fellows and caused lots of laughter.
